Jury sustains self-defense plea

Ladner found not guilty after second murder trial

County jury deliberated little more than an hour last night before finding Hurley Ladner not guilty of murdering his father-in-law Dale Raymond Paige

The prosecution claimed that Ladner was guilty of murder,

Defense Attorney Albert Necaise argued that Ladner was not guilty because he shot Paige in self-defense. Judge Thomas instructed the jury they could find Ladner guilty of murder, guilty of manslaughter or not guilty.

Following the verdict Ladner broke down and had to be assisted from the courtroom.

Thomas dismissed the jury and ordered the courtroom full of spectators to remain seated until the jurors had cleared the contthouse

"He was beating me with his hands and anything else he could grab.' She spent the remainder of the night at her father's house, she said.

When she returned about 7 p.m. Sun-day, she testified, Ladner followed her into the bedroom, locked the door behind him, threw her on the bed, straddled her and put what 'felt like' a knife against her throat.

Ladner denied threatening his wife and said he shot Paige in self-defense after Paige 'kicked in' his bedroom door and advanced on Ladner saying, 'I'll kill you. I'll kill you.'

Paige was shot twice in the early morning hours of July 10, 1983, with an AR-15 carbine.

"My father-in-law threatened to kill me, so I popped him twice with my AR-15," Deputy Sheriff David Garcia quoted Ladner as saying later that morning after he had been arrested and given his Miranda warnings.

Testimony elicited that Ladner and his wife lived together with Ladner's parents for about two years preceding their marriage.

Both Ladner and his wife testified that Ladner and Paige got along fairly well, and Regina Ladner said her father would never hurt her husband.

But Ladner testified that about three weeks before the shooting, Paige threatened me at his home.

"He said the next time his daughter came home to his house crying she'd been beaten up he'd come over and straighten my - - - out,"

Although Regina Ladner testiffed her husband had 'hit' her, state witnesses Roy Lee Cuevas and his wife Joyce, who spent the night in the Ladner home, testified that they had not witnessed any hitting by either of them.

And Joyce Cuevas said only she and Ladner were still up when Regina Ladner came home Saturday night.

Joyce Cuevas said she was in the kit-chen folding laundry.

Waveland Board plans cent sales tax hike to cover suit costs

By DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen decided Tuesday to Issue $551,000 in bonds to defray the costs of a lawsuit

According to Mayor John Longo Jr., the bonds will be paid back with a one cent sales tax. The $551,000 is needed to settle a lawsuit the city lost last year against Travelers Insurance

The suit was filed by the city 10 years ago after the contractor building Waveland's original sewage system went bankrupt before the job was finished. Travelers Insurance held the bond for the contractor and was supposed to handle the completion of 150 items, but city officials contended that street repairs and line connections were left unfinished, the mayor said.

The city has obtained legislative perssion to issue bonds but must first publish a notice of intent for 30 days. An election must be held on the issue if 20 percent of Waveland's voters petition for one during that time. The 30 days will end on or about July 18

In other business, the board decided to pass an ordinance restricting bonfires on the beach to an area from Jackson Bayou to Buccaneer State Park. Fires in barbecues and other acceptable types of stoves will still be allowed on the beach. Bonfires were allowed on the beach in the past but were regulated through is-suance of a $25 permit, with the $25 refundable if the area was cleaned up after the fire.

However, the city has continued to receive complaints about fires or smoke from beachiront residents, prompting Tuesday's action.

The board also discussed a problem with the collection of sewer fees from businesses where both landlords and tenants have refused to pay, including one or two cases where sewer service is the only utility being purchased from the city. The board decided to cut off service for non-payment.
In a related matter, the board decided to charge $50 rather than the regular $25 fee to people who have utility ser-vice turned on after regular working

The board also held a brief ceremony honoring two policemen, Mike Prendergast and Billy Fields III, for rescuing eight-year-old Renee LeBourgeois last week after her raft was blown away from the beach by strong winds. The mayor presented both with certificates from the city.

One daily paper had eight solid pages of coverage on the president's visit, by far more press than he would have received in this country.

He said security was very heavy around President Reagan and he had only gotten to see him on television like most of the people.

Most people would be likely to reply that since their homes and possessi are insured, they wouldn't lose

But according to experts at Honeywell Protection Services, some of the items most commonly stolen are either uninsured or under-insured. And regardless of insurance coverage, some property is literally irreplaceable.

The ten most popular targets of burglars are jewelry, electronic equipment (stereos, TVs, VCRs, home computers), bicycles, tools, musical instruments, cameras, guns, furniture, silver and gold, and collectible coins.

In December 1977, Congress enacted the first of the recent Social Security bail-out plans. That solution would "restore the fiscal soundness of the cash-benefit program for the re-mainder of this century and unto the early years of the next one," according to the 1978 annual report of the Social Security Board of Trustees.

By 1980, that same board of trustees said in its annual report that the assets of the Old-Age and Survivor Insurance Trust Fund "would soon become insufficient to pay benefits" and "changes in the law are needed..." In 1983, the National Co a former chief actuary of the Social Security system, A. Haeworth Robert son, thinks the system is in such bad shape that to honor obligations to today's workers, payroll taxes of nt may be required. That hits the small-business owner's hot button.

Payroll taxes are the most regressive and discriminatory of all taxes. They are taxes on jobs. Small business is the principal source of new jobs in the United States; but whenever a smallbusiness owner hires a new worker, the government immediately slaps a fax on that employee.

The payroll tax already accounts for 30 percent of all federal revenues—up from only 10 percent in 1952. Because small companies tend to be labor intensive, a much greater percentage of their total taxes are payroll taxes.

WHAT IS STROKE? A stroke occurs when the blood sup-ply to part of the brain is halted by either a clot, a ruptured vessel or pressure on the blood vessel by a tumor. Strokes are more likely to occurwhen arteries leading to the brain have been previously damaged by a disease process called hardening of the arteries. Warning signs of a pos-

CONGRESS By Cong. Trent Lott

AN OPPORTUNITY SEIZED

Several weeks ago I expressed my concern over missed opportunities by the House of Representatives to cut federal spending and assist in the deficit-cutting program.

I am happy to report that on May 31, the lawmakers in a display of but cutting zeal actually reduced by $1.2 billion a major spending measure, the appropriations bill for the departments of State, Justice, Commerce and other related agencies.

It seems that in the Congress we all talk about deficits and express grave concern about the national debt, yet the House and Senate go right along in ap proving major increases in each of the 13 appropriations bills.

The State, Justice, Commerce appropriations bill offers a good example as to why these spending bills increase stently every year. When it came to the floor, this bill budgeted $2.3 billion for the Department of State, including $588 million for contributions to ational organizations, the functions of which you would not believe.

Some of these international organizations include the International Natural Rubber Organization, the International Office of Epizootics, the International Organization for Legal Metrology, the International Rubber Study Group, the International Seed Testing Association, the Interparliamentary Union and the Lead and Zinc Study Group.
During the debate on May 31, I asked my colleagues how we ever were going to reduce federal spending if we could not deal with frivolous contributions to such groups.

The good news is that the House did not miss this opportunity to act respon-

After eliminating nearly $770 million for the Legal Services Corporation and the Federal Trade Commission, the House agreed to a four percent acrossthe-board reduction in all programs in the bill not tied to entitlements The result was a bill much improved over the version that was first brought to the House for its consideration, and one which represented only a slight in-crease over spending for the 1984 fiscal year. The State, Justice, Commerce appropriations bill is a very important piece of legislation which has significant impact on the 5th Congressional Within the Department of Commer it funds the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's fisheries marine, weather, environmental and satellite programs. The bill includes funding for other Commerce-related agencies including the Small Business Administration.

In my mind, these programs which produce positive returns to the economy for the nation as a whole should take precedence over the International Rubber Study Group.

Too much money is being wasted by the bureaucracies at the State and Justice departments, and I am ple that the House seized the opportunity to curb that spending

Matters of Health

ACNE

Q: I'm 14 and my face is breaking out. What should I do?

Described by several health experts as the bane of a teenager's existence, acne is the most frustrating health disease of all for teens and their parents. Four out of five young people will experience the problem when they reach puberty.

Even though acne is a common pro-blem, many families don't talk about it or seek treatment for the teen.

Acne is given the silent treatment for two reasons: (1) if you don't talk about it, acne might go away, and (2) the acne victim must be personally responsible for having the condition; he or she must have it because of a somehow questionable lifestyle.

. It's true that in many instances acre-left untreated eventually will subside and disappear. But in the interim, a teenager's complexion may be scarred and self-esteem diminished.

It is not true that too many stops at the drive-in restaurant, too little sleep and too few baths cause acne.

Acne happens from within the body, not without. Setting the process in motion is the male hormone androgen which is produced by both males and females during puberty. Males produce androgen in greater amounts, so acne in males is generally more common than in females.

The hormone androgen stimulates the sebaceous glands of the hair follicles to produce a fatty substance known as sebum.

Blackheads, whiteheads, pimples and other skin lesions occur when the tubes from the hair follicles to the outer skin become clogged or blocked by sebum.

When the skin is functioning normally, sebum keeps the skin soft and the hair lustrous.

The "at home" treatment for acne sufferers includes the following "do's and don'ts." In most cases, these will alleviate the condition.

-Squeeze or pick pimples. This can cause further infection and scarring.

-Don't use oil-base makeup or DO -Wash the skin two or three times a day to remove excess oil and to keep Between washings, use alcohol wipes for the same purpose.

—Shampoo the hair twice a week, again to remove excess oil.

If your skin tans, arrange time in the sun or under a suniamp as this can have a positive effect. Exposures at all times should be timed very carefully.

-Obtain over-the-counter medica-tion in gel form that contains benzoyl peroxide. This medication can help prevent the formation of new lesions

Unless there is marked improvement in two weeks, consult your doctor or a dermatologist. There are prescription medications available for more serious

Additional charges against the two for allegedly discharging firearms within the city and causing property damage were lodged by the Bay Police, according to Chief Douglas Williams, for the jewelry store incident.

The incident at the Shelton home occurred at around 12:30 a.m. and arrest warrants were secured, the two taken into custody at about 3:30 a.m., according to Ronald Peterson, Hancock

Walter Dardar, owner of the Jewelry Factory on Wednesday stated, "L am very thankful for the quick response received from the Bay St. Louis police, sheriff's office and Waveland Police Department when the door of my business was shot up."

"They apprehended the suspects very fast and helped in getting my place of business back in order," Darden steed

Dardar estimated all damages amounted to approximately $2,000.

Original bond was set at $100,000 for each and later reduced to $5,000 each on county charges and $1,000 each on the Bay St. Louis charges, Peterson said Wednesday morning.
They later posted bond and were

Corps slates public meet on Coast water resources

The Mobile District of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will conduct a public meeting at the Marine Education Center Auditorium in Biloxi on Tuesday, at 7 p.m. At this meeting, the Corps will provide information regarding the water resources management study for the Missisisppi Gulf Coast and request information from the public regarding water resources problems that need to be addressed in detailed studies.

A study of the water resources of Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties was first proposed in 1973.

That year, the Committee on Public Works of the United States Senate resolved that study to be conducted to include "a plan for the development, and conservation of water and related land resources of the river basins, coastal areas and streams, lakes and estaurine zones."

Subject areas were to include "app-propriate consideration of the needs for protection against floods, wise use of flood plains, navigational facilities, enhancement and conservation of fish and wildlife, and other resources for the enhancement and protection of the environment and for the development of omic and human resources."

Unfortunately, this ambitious program was not funded for 10 years. Recently the above resolution was "rediscovered" by local and state of-

Have you enjoyed any sushi or tempura or sukiyaki lately? Well, I have, and it's been lots

No, I haven't just returned from Japan, and no, I haven't as yet sampled the offerings at the Japanese Pavilion at the Fair in New Orleans, though friends have told me the food's delicious!

Instead I've been devouring a delightful book on Japanese cooking, "Japanese Cooking For Health and Fitness" by Kiyoko Konishi, whose specialty. I'm told, is teaching the art of Japanese cooking to foreigners such as I.

book was copyrighted by Gakken Co. Ltd. of Tokyo in 1983, and the first U.S. edition was published this year by Barron's Educational Series, Inc. in New York. And of course, I've been trying out various recipes and enjoying the results. Japanese cooking is known for the visual appeal of the dishes as well as e flavor—and the emphasis on healthfulness with its abundant use of fish and shellfish, vegetables and rice.

The food is cooked quickly and usually with less oil than in many other cuisines. Rice, a staple grain and principal food in the Japanese diet, is rved plain or in combination with other dishes.

The rice dishes took the most "getting used to" for me. for the Japanese prefer the short-grained rice which turns out somewhat soft and sticky when cooked, quite a change for one such as I, indoc-trinated almost from the

Meanwhile, peel the shrimp, leaving the tail and last section nearest the tail attached Holding the shrimp by the tail, dip in the batter up to the shell segment nearest the tail, but do not dip the tail.

To fry, hold the tail and let the shrimp slide down the side of the pan into the hot oil, wait one second, release the tail-and, we are cautioned, always fry with previously unused oil so that the color of your tempura will be good and the fried items light.

Start, of course, with vegetables such as sweet or white potatoes, which need more cooking time, continue with onions or squash or car-rots or whatever and the shrimp. (Cook the shrimp for only four minutes). Serve with a dipping sauce and con-diments. Amounts of batter and oil depend, of course, upon

MIGRATION ROUTE...This map shows the study sites of the trans-Gulf migrants and the direction the birds fly both to and from North America each year. Dr. Frank Moore, professor of biology at USM and two graduate students recently visited Peveto Beach (1) to study the orientation of the species that rest in the area. Moore will be visiting Belle Fontaine Beach (2) next spring to do further research on bird migration. Hattiesburg (3) is another site that research on the migration of birds is taking place.

Trans-Gulf bird migrations watched by USM scientists

By Mary Farrell USM Public Relations Staff Writer

Every spring and summer marks a seasonal turning point in the migration of birds to North America in search of a mate and the hatching of young offspring.

University of Southern Mississippi biology professor, Dr. Frank Moore and several graduate students recently traveled to the Louisians coast near Cameron and camped in one of the woodlands that lays scattered along the Gulf of Mexico.

Moore says the thousands of birds making their trek across the Gulf land in these islandlike pockets of woods which are surrounded by marshes. These areas are the first suitable places to land and rest until they head further

The resting spots are used by vast numbers of ducks, geese, shore birds, blackbirds sparrows, warblers and thrushes. During the height of migration, a visitor can see a greater number of species and individuals of migratory birds than can be noted almost anywhere else in the world.
"It takes these birds anywhere from 14 to 24 hours to make the migration," Moore said.

"Most of the birds we deal with are passerines, which are robin size down to the hummingbird size, and make up the bulk of the trans-Gulf migration of the trans-Gulf and is mainly interested in the orientation behavior of the various species. "This behavior, which enables the bird to find a direction and to orient their activities in general, helps the bird maintain that direction of flight,"

There has been considerable speculation bearing on the question of how birds find their way, but there is also the equally weighted question of "how they behave en route" that Moore is also interested in answering.

"It is very difficult to follow the migration of birds, but we are able to study their eating and homing habits in this par-ticular stopover area," Moore said. 'The birds may stay up to three days at the sight, but it depends on the physiological condition of the bird. "If the birds arrive and haven't burned up a lot of calories or depleted fat, then they may take off that same night," he added.

Moore said that some of the birds that arrive are famished or their fat reserves have been depleted and it is more likely that they will spend more time in the area.

Studies of the migration of individual birds have been greatly advanced by the banding method. Moore received permission from the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service to band the migrants and said he has banded several hundred

'One' of the main reasons for the banding is, if recap-tured, we can see how long the bird has stayed in the coastal

In order to capture and study the individual species, Moore and the students run misnets, which are fine-mesh nets approximately 30 to 36 millimeters wide, throughout The birds will then be band-destroyed each year by storms, the inhospitality of strange habitats and through the attacks of predatory birds and mammals, he said one of the major causes of the unnatural deaths is environmen tal habitat alteration.

"Birds are highly mobile creatures," he said. "The effect of the destruction of a given block of forest can be overlooked easily because of the bird's ability to go elsewhere.

A species that moves several tens or even hundreds of kilometers in a night during migration can easily move a few kilometers right or left, go farther to reach a suitable habitat."

But Moore added that when Although Moore said that migrants arrive upon the untold thousands of the northern Gulf Coast in spring

HUNGER IN U.S.

"Frontline" presents a documentary report on hunger in America at 9 p.m., Friday, June 8 on Mississippi Educational Television.

The documentary, "Bread, Jutter and Politics," follows the presidential commission on hunger on its fact-finding mission. "Frontline's" report will show what the commission sees—and what it does not see—a cramining the human side of the hunger story as well as the charged political debate that surrounds it.

Presidential counselor Edwin. Neese earned himself a place on the front pages of most newspapers across the country in the weeks just before Christmas with his sug-gestion that some people go to soup kitchens just to get free

Several months ago, "Frontline" assigned producer Chris Jeans and correspondent Charlie Cobb to prepare a report on hunger. "We are convinced that our team is on top of the hunger issue —both the human story and the political debate," said David Fanning, executive producer of "Frontline."

We thank Peoples Federal Savings and Loan for the donation of the delicious rolls enjoyed with the dinner and many thanks to RSVP for their usual assistance. We can always count on them and that is a nice feeling.

SUPER VOLUNTEER

Our own Josephine Hopkins was honored in Jackson Thursday as being one of the outstanding volunteers in Mississippi.

Jo has been helping us at the center fixing snacks and cof-fee for at least four years. She is here at 8 a.m. and stays through lunch and afternoon snack at 3 p.m. What would we do without her? We thank RSVP for writing up her accomplishments and sending her nomination in for her work of their other volunteers for their work in the community, and I am sure you will be reading about their wonderful contributions to our Hancock County people. They also took us all up to Jackson to the Awards Banquet in their bus and paid for the lunches.

Thanks a million!. And thanks to our volunteers. WORLD'S FAIR

Our first trip leaves Tues-day morning and we are book-ed up for all of the trips. We are looking foward to having a grand time and we will be sure see our own Mississippi Pavilion.

Anyone wanting to get on our waiting list for the next trips can give us their name and if we have anyone who can't go we can get you in touch with them and you can buy their tickets. FIELD TRIPS
